Janet Leigh

Coming across the photo of a beautiful young girl.

"That face is fascinating. It should be in pictures."

It didn't take long to discover that the face belonged to the daughter of the receptionist. When Miss Shearer returned to Hollywood the photo went along with her. She showed it to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio executives who, also impressed with the girl's beauty, sent for her and offered her an acting contract.

It so happened the studio at the time was searching for a girl to play the role of Lissy Anne in "The Romance of Rosy Ridge." A dozen well-known actresses had been tested for the part of the girl who is wooed and won by Van Johnson. But always there seemed to be some quality missing.

Then along came Janet. Director Roy Rowland and Jack Cummings, producing the picture for M-G-M, knew at sight of her that she was the girl for whom they had been searching even before they saw her screen test.

"When I saw her smile in front of that camera and then the transition to real tears, I knew that here was something one seldom encounters—a natural acting talent," said Rowland.

Things then began moving at whirlwind speed for this new Cinderella Girl. There were interviews with the press, wardrobe fittings for the picture, portraits for publicity and—within two weeks—a trip to Santa Cruz, Calif., for location scenes.

Janet is interested in all sports, particularly badminton and baseball, and she loves to dance. Music is her passion and she is the possessor of a lovely soprano voice, which is certain to be made use of in the movies.

THE END

JANET LEIGH, now playing the romantic starring role opposite Glenn Ford in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Doctor and the Girl," was actually signed to a film contract without a screen test.

Yet, in two short years after her discovery, she rang up an impressive record. She played opposite Van Johnson in "The Romance of Rosy Ridge," joined Walter Pidgeon and Deborah Kerr in "If Winter Comes," played in three Technicolor films, "Hills of Home," "Words and Music," "Little Women," and after her dramatic role opposite Van Heflin in "Act of Violence," played in two more of Hollywood's most important new films—"That Forsyte Woman" and "The Red Danube."

Born Jeanette Helen Morrison, in Merced, California, on July 6, she is the daughter of Fred and Helen Morrison. The family moved to Stockton, California, when she was a small child, and it was there she attended public schools and college.

Janet studied music at the College of the Pacific in Stockton. Acting as a career had never occurred to her. She had appeared in school operettas—but only as part of a large choral group. She wasn't so sure that she was the movie type. Then suddenly came Cinderella's good angel.

Norma Shearer happened to spend a vacation at the Sugar Bowl Ski Lodge in Soda Springs, Calif. During her visit Miss Shearer was leafing through a family photographic album one day. The book belonged to the receptionist at the Lodge.

Glenn Ford

GLENN FORD was born in Quebec, Canada, on May 1. His father, who passed away in 1940, was Newton Ford, a prominent railroad executive, manufacturer and mill owner and nephew of Sir John MacDonald, former Prime Minister of Canada. He also was descended from Martin Van Buren, eighth president of the United States. The actor's mother, who now lives with him, is Hannah Ford.

Glenn, an only child, was brought to Santa Monica, California, when he was seven, receiving his entire education there. While attending Santa Monica High School, he was school commissioner of entertainment, a class officer and the school's outstanding actor as lead in both the Junior and Senior Class plays.

In Junior High, he had been a promising track athlete, and showed considerable ability at lacrosse, Canada's national sport, but in high school his full attention went to drama, and to the necessity of working at various odd jobs.

Graduated in 1934, he resolved to go on the stage, following an ambition he had nurtured since youth. As a boy of four he had converted the Ford barn into a theatre and starred in "Tom Thumb's Wedding." Later, in the course of numerous backyard productions, he derived great pride from a "colossal" presentation of "King Arthur and His Knights."

His first "legit" job came in 1935, when Herman Schumlin came to the West Coast to re-stage "The Children's Hour." Despite Ford's lack of experience, outside of school dramatics, he won the part of the grocery boy, one of the play's two male characters.

Following a western tour in this play, he joined The Players, a little theatre group in Santa Monica. His portrayal of the brutal Michael Rakobsky in Elmer Rice's "Judgment Day" caught the attention of scouts from the nearby Hollywood studios, and won him a film test and subsequent contract.

While this was developing, however, he played three successful stage engagements — with Francis Lederer in "Golden Boy" with John Beal in the Pacific Coast and Broadway casts of "Soliloquy" and with Irene Rich in "A Broom For a Bride."

It was while playing in New York that he walked down the street from his own show one day and decided to watch a musical comedy. On the stage, in "At Home Abroad," he saw his future wife, Eleanor Powell, for the first time.

He saw her occasionally after that, with the theatre crowd, and they developed a "nodding" acquaintance. But, it wasn't until some time later, in Hollywood, that they were introduced formally by Pat O'Brien, and their romance began.

By this time, his own career was flourishing in Hollywood. Following his first picture, "Heaven With A Barbed Wire Fence," in 1939, he gained increasing stature as an actor and more and more attention from young feminine fans, with his performances in such films as "Men Without Souls," "Texas," "The Adventures of Martin Eden," "Desperadoes," and "Destroyer."

His career, however, and his romance were interrupted on December 13, 1942 when he entered the U. S. Marine Corps. Both were still flourishing two-and-a-half years later when he was able to get back into mufti. On a leave, he had married Miss Powell on October 23, 1943, in Beverly Hills, on February 5, 1945, just as he was being discharged from service, a son, Peter Newton Ford, was born.

Shortly after, he resumed his career with two outstanding roles, opposite Bette Davis in "A Stolen Life" and opposite Rita Hayworth in "Gilda." Since then, he has been one of Hollywood's busiest war veterans with "Bodies and Souls" his twelfth post-war film. It, incidentally, is his first at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the studio where his wife reigned as Hollywood's foremost feminine dancing star for many years. THE END

The TRUTH about

EXCESSIVE FALLING HAIR
ITCHY SCALP, DANDRUFF
HEAD SCALES, SEBORRHEA

HAIR LOSS

WARNING!

The following facts are brought to the attention of the public because of a widespread belief that nothing can be done about hair loss. This belief has no basis in medical fact. Worse, it has condemned many men and women to needless baldness by their neglect to treat certain accepted causes of hair loss.

There are six principal types of hair loss, or alopecia, as it is known in medical terms:

1. Alopecia from diseases of the scalp
2. Alopecia from other diseases or from an improper functioning of the body
3. Alopecia of the aged (senile baldness)
4. Alopecia areata (loss of hair in patches)
5. Alopecia of the young (premature baldness)
6. Alopecia at birth (congenital baldness)

Senile, premature and congenital alopecia cannot be helped by anything now known to modern science. Alopecia from improper functioning of the body requires the advice and treatment of your family physician.

BUT MANY MEDICAL AUTHORITIES NOW BELIEVE A SPECIFIC SCALP DISEASE IS THE MOST COMMON CAUSE OF HAIR LOSS.

DANGER SYMPTOMS!

This disease is called Seborrhea and can be broadly classified into two clinical forms with the following symptoms:

1. DRY SEBORRHEA: The hair is dry, lifeless, and without gloss. A dry flaky dandruff is usually present with accompanying itchiness. Hair loss is considerable and increases with the progress of this disease.
2. OILY SEBORRHEA: The hair and scalp are oily and greasy. The hair is slightly sticky to the touch and has a tendency to mat together. Dandruff takes the form of head scales. Scalp is usually itchy. Hair loss is severe with baldness as the end result.

Many doctors agree that to NEGLECT these symptoms of DRY and OILY SEBORRHEA is to INVITE BALDNESS.

Seborrhea is believed to be caused by three germ organisms — staphylococcus albus, pityrosporum ovale, and acnes bacillus.

These germs attack the sebaceous gland causing an abnormal working of this fat gland. The hair follicle, completely surrounded by the enlarged diseased sebaceous gland, then begins to atrophy. The hair produced becomes smaller and smaller until the hair follicle dies. Baldness is the inevitable result. (See illustration.)

But seborrhea can be controlled, particularly in its early stages. The three germ organisms believed to cause seborrhea, can and should be eliminated before they destroy your normal hair growth.

A POST WAR DEVELOPMENT Comate Medicinal Formula kills these three germ organisms on contact. Proof of Comate's germ-killing properties has been demonstrated in laboratory tests recently conducted by one of the leading testing laboratories in America. (The complete report is on file and copies are available on request.)

When used as directed, Comate Medicinal Formula controls seborrhea—stimulates the flow of blood to the scalp—helps stop scalp itch and burn—improves the appearance of your hair and scalp—helps STOP HAIR LOSS due to seborrhea. Your hair looks more attractive and alive.

You may safely follow the example of thousands who first were skeptical, then curious, and finally decided to avail themselves of Comate Medicinal Formula.

DESTRUCTION OF HAIR FOLLICLES
Caused By Seborrhea

A — Dead hairs; B — Hair-destroying bacteria; C — Hypertrophied sebaceous glands; D — Atrophic follicles.
